Soft-Zep

The Reinhardt Soft-Zep is nothing short of a revolution in simplicity, design and performance. The Soft-Zep has vastly improved wind noise reduction in comparison with standard basket windshields systems .

Especially developed so that the microphone can be mounted easily and swiftly with no tricky bayonet or screw fittings to wrestle with, the microphone is simply inserted into the rear of the Soft-Zep.

Weight has been a key factor in the design of the Soft-Zep, weighing in an astoundingly light 202gms or 7.2oz for the Basic model and 406g / 14.3oz for the standard Soft-Zep.

The hand grip has benefited from the experience that Reinhardt has gathered from the now famous PG2 pistol grip. Made from high quality Kraton rubber with extra soft gel inserts with a slip-free surface for a secure and comfortable grip.

The 3/8 whitworth boom-pole mount is offset and can be swivelled and then locked in position for maximum comfort and convenience.

The XLR connectors are top quality Neutrik connectors and the cable is to the same high standard.

The basic version has no pistol grip or XLR wiring and is intended for use with a boom pole or microphone support. Two lengths are available and the hole size is now "one size fits all" from 19mm to 24mm.
